Wednesday 10th February 2021

Thank you for your support as we navigate our way through another lockdown. There have been many new challenges this time, with us all getting to grips with remote learning, however I am really proud of how we have embraced this new way of accessing learning. It has been a learning curve for us all, and I appreciate your perseverance.

I am sure you are looking forward to the time when we can all be back in school, and learning together. We await Mr Johnson's decision as to when schools will reopen, and we are reassured that the government has stated that schools will have two weeks notice before reopening. As previously mentioned in government daily briefings, the current date when schools may go back is the 8th of March. Until this time, we will continue to work with you and support children's learning the best we can. We feel that through a blended approach of live lessons and guided-study, with frequent feedback and the opportunity to discuss progress with your child's class teacher, we are able to best continue your child's learning during this time.

Non-uniform Friday 12th February 2021

The last day of term is a non-school uniform day for those children in school and we encourage children who are remote learning to also take part. We would like everyone to wear something red, gold or yellow to mark Chinese New Year.

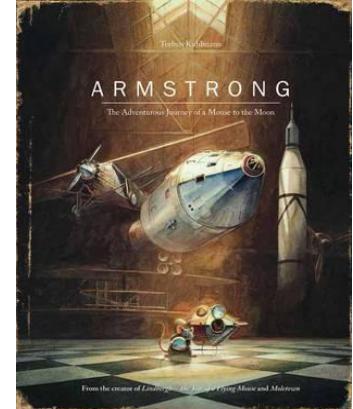

Two Week Project

Next term we will be focusing on a whole school theme based around the visual books written by Torben Kuhlmann. Both children learning in school and at home remotely, will be learning through fun activities, linking their maths and English knowledge. It promises to be an exciting project.

School is currently closed to the vast majority of pupils, as a result, we will be postponing termly reports. However, if you would like to talk to somebody about your child's progress and how they're doing we will be more than happy to arrange a phone conversation.

I hope everybody has a safe half term and I look forward to seeing everybody back either at school or remotely on Monday 22nd February.

Thank you for your continued support

Kind Regards

Mr Nicholson
